Apr. 1, 1927.

Mr. J. J. Collier,
Jacksonville, Texas.

Dear Jim:

In January I received your letter and certainly was glad to hear from you.

I trust that you and your wife are getting along all O. K., and that your section of Texas is enjoying the production, or rather the amount of money, left from the 1926 cotton crop.

In the agriculture section of Georgia business is bad, but in the industrial towns there is good business.

Yes, I am coming out in Texas the latter part of May and jump around over the entire State. I want to go out to Plain View and visit the family of D. H. Collier, who comes from the Memphis bunch of the Colliers. He descended from a brother of Vines, who came to Georgia in 1780.

Advise all of your relatives to stay away from the farm, there is noting ever coming to the man who tills the soil; he has had his day.

All of the family send you their good wishes and love. Give your wife my kindest regards and good wishes.

Sincerely,

JCC:S
